A LITTLE NONSENSE.

Story of the Late Sir Henry Irving and His Experience as a Barnstormer.

During his last American tour the late Sir Henry Irving told the following story on himself one evening at the Players' club:

"My barnstorming days seem very distant, and yet very dear to me now. I recall with particular pleasure a melodrama of crime in high life wherewith I barnstormed the provinces for two successful seasons.

"My part called in the first act for a dark stage. In this darkness I fought with an old earl, threw him heavily, and when he did not rise after the loud thud of his fall I cried out:

"Great heavens! What have I done?"

"Usually this scene impressed and moved my audience tremendously, but I remember one night in Birmingham when a coster with one little witticism turned my outcry and the darkness and the old earl's tragic fall into ridicule and laughter. I have never seen that coster, but I remember his voice well. It was a slow, dry voice, like Mark Twain's, and it manifested itself just after the fall of my aged and noble antagonist. The old earl had dropped heavily, and in the silent obscurity I had cried: 'Great heavens! What have I done?' when the coster spoke up:

"Strike a match, young fellow, and we'll have a look."

Why They Married.

The bull-he liked to blow his horns.
For he was wondrous proud.
One day he caught a counter blow,
And now he's fairly cowed.
—Harvard Lampoon.

A Permanent Mystery.

"Is it true that Rockefeller has more money than it would ever be possible for him to spend?" asked the man who likes statistics.

"That is one of the things that will always remain mysteries. He will never try the experiment."— Washington Star.

Saying and Doing.

Mrs. Nagget—For gracious sake, I do wish you'd improve! That's a very vulgar habit of yours, forever saying "Gad!"

Mr. Nagget—Yes, so different from your habit. You don't say it, but you're forever doing it.—Philadelphia Press.

In Sympathy.

Eva—Gracious, Katharine, you are going through that novel at the rate of a mile a minute. Don't read so fast!

Katharine—I have to, dear. The hero and heroine are in an automobile.—Detroit Tribune.

Not Improbable.

"All I lack," said the would be poet, "is the power of expression.
There's poetry in me, and I mean to bring it out before I die."

"Perhaps," replied the cynic, "it'll kill you before you get it out of your system."—Puck.

All Pleased.

"I hear your club is going to give an entertainment. Do you think it will be a success?"

"Sure to be! We've arranged it so that every member is chairman of some committee or other."— Philadelphia Ledger.

Not Alarming.

"I can't make anything out of that case," began the young doctor.
"What?" exclaimed his wife.

"Oh, don't be scared. I mean I don't understand it. Of course I'm making money out of it."—Philadelphia Press.

The Black Hand.

"You say you had an experience with the 'black hand' while in New York?"

"Yes, and a terrible experience it was. I had three aces, and the other man had five clubs."—Washington Star.

The Point of View.

Old Neighbor—So you liked the old home well enough to come back and die here?

Wanderer—Yes. You see, there's no place on earth I would so willingly leave.—Lippincott's Magazine.

Not Hasty In Judgment.

Poulterer—Was that a good chicken I sold you last Saturday?

Customer—I don't know. We couldn't bite far enough into it to catch the flavor.—Judge.

ALL OVER THE HOUSE.

Instructions For Laundering Silk and Embroidered Articles.

Articles made of silk or white goods embroidered in silk should always be washed in tepid water, with some good plain white or castile soap. A little borax may be used, but there should be no amon-ia in the water unless the silk is naturally eeri in color.

The silk garments are allowed to stand from twenty minutes to half an hour in a suds of tepid water to which has been added one teaspoonful of borax dissolved in a quart of boiling water. They are then washed with the hands, rinsed in two waters, put through the wringer and hung out to dry. When about half dried they should be taken in and spread on a sheet and rolled up.
They may be pressed in an hour or so. The iron should be rather cool, and there should be a clean cloth or piece of manilla paper between the iron and the silk.

The Kitchen Range.

If a range is carefully wiped with brown paper after cooking greasy food, it can be kept bright with little difficulty. Stoves and ranges should be kept free from soot in all the compartments, for if the air passages are clogged an oven will not heat well. It is wiser for the mistress to understand the practical working of her range unless she has exceptionally good servants, for many hindrances to well cooked food will be prevented.

Formula For Face Cream.

White wax, three and one-half ounces; spermaceti, three and one-half ounces; almond oil, fourteen ounces; water, six and one-half ounces; borax, thirty grains; oil of rose, five drops. Heat white wax, spermaceti and almond oil not hotter than you can touch a finger to.
Dissolve borax in water, pour into oil, take from the stove with an egg beater, beat until creamy, add oil of rose and beat as long as possible.

Herring Fritters.

Skin and fillet two smoked herrings. Cut these into neat pieces, put them in a deep dish, season with pepper and lemon juice and moisten with a little oil. Prepare a thick frying batter, and after it has soaked an hour drop in the pieces of herring, fry them in deep fat to a light brown, dish up on a folded napkin, garnish with fried parsley and serve.

Heliotrope Sachet.

Formula for heliotrope sachet: Seven and one-half ounces of rose petals, three and three-fourths ounces of orris root, three and three-fourths ounces of lavender flowers, one ounce of tonka beans, one-half ounce of benzoin, twenty grains of musk, twelve drops of oil of bitter almonds, two drops of oil of sandalwood, forty drops of oil of neroli.

Washing Fluid.

Half a pound of borax, four pounds of sal soda, about two pounds of unsalted lime. Take twenty quarts of water in boiler, put borax, sal soda and lime in, boil about half an hour and let it settle.
Take top off for clothes and bottle.
Use the white part for scrubbing floors and cleaning. Use one cupful to a boiler of clothes.

Eggs For Invalids.

To boil eggs for invalids bring the water to the boil, then take the saucepan off the fire and place the eggs in it for five minutes. This will cook the eggs perfectly without making the whites hard and indigestible. It is also well to boil an egg intended for a young child in this manner.

Treatment For Lumbago.

For lumbago one of the best agents is friction, but it needs for its application good sense and care.
Violent rubbing of short duration is useless. The patient needs a sustained gentle rubbing that will promote and keep up warmth without making the skin tender.

For Cold Feet.

When your feet grow cold during your hours at work, take the tiptoe exercise, rising slowly on the toes, holding the position a minute and then slowly lowering the heels to the floor.

Cleaning Bookbindings.

Books with delicate bindings which have become soiled through much handling can be satisfactorily cleaned by rubbing with chamois skin dipped in powdered pumice stone.

Faded Upholstery.

Rub over with a cloth wrung out of hot salt water and then with a second cloth wrung out of ammonia and water. This removes grease and revives the colors.

Fair Play.

An attache of the American embassy at London tells a story of a butler in the employ of a fine old English family whose long service had inculcated in him a personal and proprietary interest in the sons and daughters of the house. Once, on the occasion of a large dinner party, the conscientious butler observed that one of the members of the family, a young girl who had but recently entered society, was devoting an amount of attention to her agreeable neighbor on the right obviously in excess of that accorded to the less fascinating man on her left. This fact perturbed the butler to a degree that could no longer be borne in silence. So under pretense of passing the culprit a dish the butler managed to whisper respectfully in her ear:

"A little more conversation to the left, miss."—Harper's Weekly.

Cheapest Place For Sulphur.

In a little out of the way street in Boston is a small drug store, the proprietor of which is a peppery little old Irishman, and most of his customers are fellow countrymen.
Not long ago one appeared and desired to purchase 10 cents' worth of sulphur. The druggist weighed out the proper amount and was about to wrap it up when the would be purchaser interrupted.

"Sure, an' is that all I get for tin cints?"

"Faith, is it a barrel ye'll be expecting?" the druggist retorted.

"It is not, but I know a place where I can get more than that for foive cints," the other asserted.

"Ye do?" the little old fellow exclaimed, dashing the chemical back into the box. "An' I know a place where ye'll get a lot more than that for nothin' at all!"

are caused by indigestion. If you eat a little too much, or if you are subject to attacks of indigestion, you have no doubt had shortness of breath, rapid heart beats, heartburn or palpitation of the heart.

Indigestion causes the stomach to expand—swell, and puff up against the heart. This crowds the heart and interferes with its action, and in the course of time the heart becomes diseased.

Kodol For Dyspepsia

digests what you eat, takes the strain off of the heart, and contributes nourishment, strength and health to every organ of the After eating, my food would distress me by making my heart palpitate and I would become very weak.

Finally I got a bottle of Kodol and it gave me immediate relief. After using a few bottles I am cured.
